Foreword

FOR THE last eighteen years the Seniors have always looked forward to publishing their annual. This year the preparation of the material for the "Sally" has been unusually interesting, because we have had the co-operation of all the classes. We want the other classes to feel that this is their annual as much as ours. We hope that everyone who reads this annual will get as much enjoyment from it as we have had in publishing it.

Dedication

*I*N SINCERE affection, we, the class of 1927, hereby dedicate this annual to our parents as a token of appreciation for their interest and faith, their human sacrifice, and their undying love for us.

*"Lives like hers so gentle and true,
Die not with the passing of years,
But leave their impress on our hearts,
Stillling our doubts and fears.
Guiding our feet into safer paths
Through the earthly storm and strife,
Until we, too, like her we loved,
Receive the Crown of Life."*

Farewell

OUR skies are bright overhead. For four years we have looked forward to the time which is now at hand. We have faced the years with determination and now we are to have our reward. But there is a little sadness in our hearts as we reach what will be the parting of the ways, for never again will the "Class of '27" meet together. For many years we have been working and playing, taking our sorrows along with our joys. Now we must part, never to meet again.

There is also a triumphant feeling, for we are now to receive our reward for work well done. At times the road has been dark; several classmates have fallen by the wayside, but still we have gone on together, each one doing his part to make every undertaking of the class and school a success. We feel that we have done well, and so we are happy.

Classmates, dear friends, as we part to pursue our separate paths, we will never quite forget the lessons which we have learned throughout years here. Although at times we may doubt—for we are but human, and it is human nature to doubt—still remembering our school life and the ideals that we have created, we will arise, stronger and better.

Teachers, it is not possible for us to express our appreciation for the many things that you have done for us. Your patient, kind, and sympathetic training has done much to shape our high school life; we can but hope that you realize how full of thanks our hearts are, even though those words may never be spoken. Though we cannot find words adequate to express our appreciation for the things that you have done to help us, we sincerely hope that in the years to come you will see the fruits of your labors in our lives.

History of the Senior Class

ONCE upon a time we, the class of '27, entered the sacred portals of dear old Sanford High. Since that fall of 1923 some of our class members have left us, some even for the bonds of matrimony; and yet a large number have lingered and these have obtained the long desired goal.

We are proud of our achievements during the last four years—yes, even during those trembling Freshmen days. For then our apologetic attitude of "scuse us" only hid a great pride in S. H. S. and the class of '27. This year we were initiated into the joys, sorrows, and responsibilities of being members of an organized class. There were the officers, class colors, the class motto, and the flower to be chosen, and perhaps greatest of all—the class dues to be paid.

However, we passed safely through this year on to our Sophomore and from there to our Junior year. During these two happy years many things were accomplished by the class of '27, the most ambitious class, we believe, that has ever graduated from Sanford High School. We proudly displayed Junior pins to the lower classmen. The Junior-Senior Banquet and the Junior Class play, "Doris Comes to Town," were marvelous successes.

Then came our last year at Sanford High. By experience, the best of teachers, we have learned much. Work and happiness have filled our Senior year—the Salmagundi, the Senior play, the invitations, class rings, banquet, boat trip; and then happiness in the achievement. What proud Seniors we are, and how very dignified! There is, however, mingled with the great happiness, a little sadness, for soon we will leave S. H. S. College will be the next step and then—Life!

To Mrs. Fort do we owe our four successful high school years. She has been our beloved sponsor and faithful friend throughout.

The latter half of our Senior year has been spent in our new school building. During these months we have greatly enjoyed its beauty and comfort and we are very proud of our Seminole High School, of which we are the first graduating class.

Last Will and Testament of the Senior Class

We, the expiring class of 1927, Seminole High School, Sanford, Florida, being of sound mind and weak body, do hereby make, ordain, publish and declare this to be our last Will and Testament, that is to say:

SECTION I. To our teachers we bequeath the memory of our studious habits, especially those of Leslie Moughton.

SECTION II. To Professor McKay we leave our sympathy, which he will need without Johnny Cameron, Algy Speer and Leslie Moughton for whom to write permits.

SECTION III. To the Juniors, our successors, we leave our front seats in chapel and our dignity. (Example: James Sands.)

SECTION IV. To the Sophomores we leave our sympathy for their heavy burden, the swelled head.

SECTION V. To the Freshmen we leave our whole-hearted sympathy for all they have endured this year.

SECTION VI. We cheerfully leave Leslie Moughton's activity and love of study to Fred Stanley; the curly locks of Alice Kesler and Leon Hershcowitz to Mary C. Kinlaw and Dick Maxwell, respectively; Johnny Cameron's regularity of attendance to Jimmy Lanier; the school romance of Camilla Puleston and Arthur Zachary to Pearle Robson and Clifford Russel.

SECTION VII. "Take heed of this:" We weepingly leave William "Bill" DuBose's aversion for the fairer sex to Robert "Bob" Highleyman, which gift we hope will be received with all due concern as the expressed wish of this passing class. To Bob Moye we bequeath Ross Mobley's meekness and slowness to anger. Luke Thompson leaves broken-heartedly his adoration of Lucile LeRoy to Chandler Sharon.

SECTION VIII. Lee Berner's passion for new ideas we pass to Lawrence Bandel; to Helen Marentette and Virginia Barber we leave the southern drawl of Stella Moses and Mildred Nix; Charles Fish bequeaths his keen scene of humor and over-abundance of wit to D. A. McDonald.

SECTION IX. It is a source of much sorrow that we have no bottle to pass on to Elva Pearce; Edith Varn with all good will leaves her short, snappy, boyish bob to her sister, Zella, to carry on the tradition of the family; Algy Speer leaves his love for English and hard study to Jack Hall.

SECTION X. Morris Benjamin leaves his genius for bringing paper and pencil to history class to Buford Brown; Helen Wilson leaves her ability as a vamp to Eleanor Bolly; Russell Lee Wheeler leaves her artistic instinct for painting faces to Mary Louise Wells. Oke Nordgren and Jimmy Sands leave their solemn dignity to Mills Lord and L. A. Summerlin.

SECTION XI. To the school board and citizens of Sanford we leave our grateful thanks for the privilege of being the first class to graduate from the new Seminole High School.

SECTION XII. To our teachers, parents and friends we leave our pledge to make our lives worthy of the ideals of our "grand old class."

SECTION XIII. We hereby constitute, make and appoint the faculty of S. H. S. our lawful executors and trustees of this, our last will and testament, hereby revoking all former wills by us made.

In witness whereof, we have hereunto set our hand and seal this 29th day of February, A. D. 1927.

Class of '27

*THE Past is only a memory,
A memory of laughter and play,
With never a serious thought of life
Such as comes to us today.*

*Our sorrows were few and fitting;
No trouble lasted for long.
Our childhood was full of happiness,
Days filled with gladness and song.*

*The Present has come with the dawning;
We stand on the threshold of Life
Prepared for the joy or the troubles,
The victory and the strife.*

*The problems of life are more serious,
'Tis no longer a joke or a jest.
We rise in our youth to face the World,
Armoured to meet Life's test.*

*The Future holds glory and triumph
For those who are willing to fight,
Who pause not in the great battle,
Though the victory seems never in sight.*

*At last when success is our portion
In the service that Life may give,
We will go to a greater glory,
Obtained by the life that we live.*

My First Honeymoon

IT WAS a dark and dreary night; the rain was coming down in torrents, when Stella and I stepped out of the office of the Justice of the Peace, to catch our train for New York. After a courtship of fifteen years, I had at last decided to let Stella become my wife. She was a classmate of mine in the class of '27.

On the train I found another old classmate, J. B. Jones, who was now a Pullman conductor. Meeting J. B. started Stella and me to thinking of our classmates, and wondering what had become of the class of '27. Of course, everyone knows that Frances Morrow became the Grand Duchess of Abyssinia, when she married the Grand Duke, who recently was on a tour of this country. One of our number, Algernon Speer, is famous as a movie shiek. I later learned that his wife, Rebecca Stevens, had instituted divorce proceedings against him.

On arriving in New York, we stopped at the Ritz—and I decided to show Stella some of the wild night life of New York, as she had never been there. In the evening we went to the Madison Square Garden, and much to our surprise, we saw Ross Mobley, the world's heavy-weight champion, send an Italian back to his fatherland, an humble and a broken man.

In Ross's corner was Russell Lee Wheeler, who holds down the double job of wife and manager. After the fight we went down to congratulate them, and to talk over old times. They further enlightened us in regard to Luke Thompson, who is now player-manager of the New York Giants, and runs on the side the most notorious night club in the metropolis. He, it seems, is still a woman-hater, and has never married.

The following afternoon we went out to Greenwich Village to see our old friend, Oke Nordgren, arriving in time to have tea. He immediately called Helen Wilson, who has the studio on the upper floor. Helen was always beautiful, but she could now put the notorious Helen of Troy in the shade.

We arrived at a hotel just in time for dinner, and after dinner I donned my "soup to nuts" and we attended the opera where Ruth Henry, the Golden Voiced Prima Donna, answered a dozen curtain calls. After the performance, we pressed forward to get an interview, but we succeeded only in meeting her press agent and manager, Elizabeth Turnbull. Also trying to get an interview was Merlin Barnes, the great financier, called by many critics, "The Wolf of Wall Street."

We made an appointment with Merlin for the next night to see our old friend, Elma Singletary, as a chorus girl in "A Pair of Black Pajamas," a musical comedy on Broadway, starring Ruth Grier. Merlin suggested that we go around by Carnegie Hall, where Leslie Moughton, as President, was addressing The Scotchmen's Anti-Extravagance Union. Another speaker of the evening was Leander Berner on "Why Gentlemen Prefer Blondes,"—the age-old question.

While idly turning the pages of my morning paper, I called Stella's attention to the fact that Dr. DuBose of Hale University has disproved the theory that "Four Out of Five Have It." Could this be the President of the class of '27? It must be!

Further down the column I noticed the name of Dr. James Sands, the noted scientist of the same institute. He leaves February 29th on his trip to Mars. He has almost decided to take his wife, Mildred Lumley, with him on this perilous journey.

According to this paper, the two largest Baked Beans manufacturers of Boston, the Gordon Cole Baked Bean Company and the MacDougal Beaneries, Inc., have merged.

Stella and I decided to continue our trip to Atlantic City to see the National Beauty Pageant. The auburn-haired Camilla Puleston as "Miss Sanford" was proclaimed the American Venus. We were invited to the dinner that night announcing her engagement to Arthur Zachary, the world-famous African Game Hunter and Sportsman. This was a romance begun in high school.

A few days in Atlantic City and we were off to Baltimore; Lillie Mae Lord, first woman mayor of Baltimore, was at the station to meet us. She had heard we were coming through on our wedding trip, and had her right-hand man, Edward Andrews, with her.

Our next stop was Washington, D. C., where we looked up our old friend, Elizabeth Earle, Senator from Florida. She took us around to see John Entzminger, the wealthy ranchman from Texas, in Washington on important government commissions. He told us that he would like us to meet his wife, Mildred Nix, but she was out of town. John told us that he came through by Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, where Narvin Thornley, the most industrious boy of the class of '27, is now studying the geology of Rock Formation in the University of Fort Leavenworth.

In the hotel lobby we bumped into Johnny Cameron, the automobile manufacturer. He was in Washington, trying to get a patent on his new airplane and automobile combination car, the Cameron Twin Six. He consented to drive us to the station, but on the way Stella tore her dress. We parked in front of an elaborate ladies' dress shop, as our trunks had been sent ahead, and the only thing to do was to buy another dress. I felt that something terrible was going to happen, but we found Louise Thrasher, known to the highbrows of Washington as Madame Louise. My pocketbook was one hundred and fifty dollars lighter than when I entered—Oh, these women!

Soon after leaving Washington, we arrived in Atlanta, and journeyed out to the Federal Penitentiary, where the warden, Melvin Dunn, showed us around. A little man for a big job, but he is capable.

On the way to the station Stella decided that she would buy something to read. She stepped into a bookshop and bought the book, "Why Is Anything?" the Pulitzer Prize of the year, by the famous novelist, Elizabeth Shoemaker.

We stopped over in Cairo, Georgia, with my old friend, C. Fish, the fly paper magnate; millions make a man handsome, noble and brave. He tells me that he has a contract with the Woodfin Oliver Syrup Company of Cairo, for all syrup used in the manufacture of fly paper. Charles asked me not to invest in the fly paper stock, as I would surely get stuck.

While in Cairo I received a letter from my sister, Gertrude, who has just been appointed Dean of Women at Rollins College. She informed me that Doris Church is Professor of Philosophy there.

A few hours after leaving Cairo we were in Jacksonville. In the Union Station we bumped into Marion Willink, another old classmate of ours, who is now President of the Women's Christian Temperance Union. She was on her way to Sanford to attend the National Convention.

She persuaded us to make the remaining part of the journey by the river route, and as the boat did not leave until morning, we attended the concert by the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra, of which Marion Wagner is director. We learned that Marion had just married Edith Varn.

The next day we boarded "The City of Sanford," the only boat in the world that is captained by a female. Soon after going aboard, we met the Captain, Verlie Prevatt, another old grad of S. H. S.

When the boat docked at De Land Landing, we were met by Vera Dickerson, the Dean of the Expression School of Stetson University. Vera told us that Gladys Stemp-er, who is Athletic Director at Stetson, could not come down to meet us.

As the boat docked in Sanford we were greeted by Leon Hershcowitz, the newly elected State's attorney. Leon attributes his success to the Sprout Correspondence School of Lake Mary, the President of which is Margaret Sprout. Thomas Bassett, a reporter on the Sanford Herald, was also at the dock.

Quite a few things had happened while we were away: Florence Tyner had opened a beauty parlor, and her motto is "Save the Surface and you Save All". Virginia Jenkins had gone to the Fiji Islands and from latest reports has been successful in teaching the natives the Black Bottom. Evelyn Jacobs has assumed the Presidency of the Wearproof Toothpick Company, Inc., of Chuluota, with Beulah Stafford as her secretary. The Hirt sisters, Olga and Marguerite, have built a large dairy farm out at Farmton. And Alice Kessler, the new Mary Pickford of the movies, has deserted the screen to become the wife of a big butter and egg man from the wilds of Kansas.

As we stood on the porch viewing the wonders of the Florida sunset, I remarked to my wife what a small world it is, after all.

A Night of Romance

*One night I saw my lady fair,
With eyes so wond'rous blue,
With a rose-bud in her lovely hair,
And a face of love so true.*

*The night was perfect in its calm,
The moon above us shining,
And not a breeze did stir the palms,
To cloud its silver lining.*

*To her I bared my loving heart
And asked her to be mine,
I kissed her once e'er we did part,
Oh, night of nights divine!*

*Then all at once I was alone,
Alas! 'twas but a dream,
I woke to see the rising sun,
And hear the rippling stream.*

Irving Bacheller Contest

THE Irving Bacheller Contest, which was held as the final feature of the annual meeting of the Florida Historical Society, took place this year on the afternoon of February 17. This contest has as its purpose the stimulation of interest in the History of Florida among High School boys and girls.

Again Sanford High School carried the honor of having two contestants, Florence Tyner and Oke Nordgren, among the four selected from the entire state.

The subjects of the essays this year were as follows:

"The Personality of Pedro Menendez."

"Andrew Turnbull and his Colony at New Smyrna."

"Juan Ponce de Leon and Early Florida Explorers Before Menendez."

"The Personality of Jean Ribaut."

Oke Nordgren selected as his subject, "Andrew Turnbull and his Colony at New Smyrna," and Florence Tyner selected as hers, "Juan Ponce de Leon and Early Florida Explorers Before Menendez."

The essays were delivered by the authors at the Irving Bacheller estate in Winter Park. They were judged by thought, originality and expression.

Our two contestants received the two ten-dollar gold pieces, which were presented by the Florida Historical Society.

History of the Junior Class

THE grim portals opened wide, and into the cavernous maw of Sanford High School trooped the novitiates: small boys trying manfully to wear their first long trousers gracefully, and small girls giggling together about the boys or something equally as foolish! Mr. Hait was sponsor and had a rather trying job. In class meeting it was decided to abolish lip-stick and rouge among the girls and make the boys comb their unruly thatches and wear neckties. That was the year we won the Halloween stunt by impersonating the faculty! The part of Mr. McKay was taken by Bob Moye! Can you imagine? Oh, well!

1924! Mr. Cooper was sponsor, and a good one, too! We gave a "minstrel", led by Clarence Duffin. ('member him?) Then the Sophomore-Senior picnic and the other big times! Oh, my!

Mr. Cooper and Mrs. Maxwell were elected sponsors for our Junior year, the year we felt more like high school pupils. Many have fallen by the way, but more struggle onward toward graduation!

The "Baby Show" did not win the prize, but I'll never forget the little baby faces of Luella Mahoney, Bob Moye, Alice Elder, and "little under-nourished Minnie B.—" Why, I'm still laughing!

*Ah, who can tell what the future may hold;
Will the lads and lassies who've proved so bold
Carry on to further glory
That banner, now so old and hoary?*

Advice to Juniors

*L*ISTEN, oh, Juniors, and you will hear
Of the woes that assailed the Seniors this year.
Our year has been hard, with little play,
And, oh! those big debts that we've had to pay.

The trials we have had were met without fears,
Though they have been such as to drive one to tears;
The "Sally" this year is a big success,
E'en though last year Seniors left us in a mess.

Now, you Juniors should profit by the Seniors' hard work,
And get a good staff that never will shirk.
We all wish you luck, this class of twenty-seven,
And if you do your duty, we'll meet you in heaven.

LED a famous visitor
Through our halls so fair and

And pointed out our Sopho-

With happiness and pride.
"Who is the capable looking girl
Who looks like an athlete light?"
"She is the Sophomore's shining star,
Our president, Margaret Wright."
"Who is the boy whose bearing shows
That he is tried and true?"
"Jack Peters, our vice-president,
All honor is his due."
"O, are there two who look alike,
Or do my eyes play a trick?"
"Those are the Sneed twins, known as
'Sneedlets,'

Our secretary is Dick."
"Who is the girl whose stately air
And dignity give pleasure?"
"That," I said, "is Marie Huddleston,
Who handles all our treasure."
"Aha! Old Spain has echoes here!
Who the boy so handsome? Speak!"
"Last year's secretary, Pete Schirard,
Well known as our class sheik."
"Who so tall with classic brood?"
"Our 'dependable' is he;
Waters, our last year's president;
We all adore 'H. C.'"
"Who is the prettiest in your class?"
"Eloise Lanier is her name.
To be the most studious in the group
Is William Allman's fame.
Yon sleek-haired maid with boyish bob
Whose dark eye glows like a lamp,
Is Adele Fining, by all proclaimed,
The Sophomore's worst wamp."
"Who are these two, the fair and the dark,
With blue eye and brown so merry?"
"They are our sponsors, best of all,
Miss Howard and our 'Cherry'.
"A wonderful class," the visitor said,
"With spirit brave and true;
Only the best of life can come
To the class of twenty-nine."

Freshman Day

Now it happened that on a certain Friday in the month of February in the year 1927, just after the sun rose and just before it set, was set aside as Freshman Day. There was much opposition to this, mostly from members of the Freshman Class, but, as it is said, "History repeats", and this Freshman Day took place in due conformity to the custom.

For a few days before this historical day, our dear little Freshmen were asked, kindly but with force, to perform certain duties. The boys were to wear beads and carry a bunch of flowers, while the girls were to wear their dresses backwards, a green ribbon in their hair, their stockings unmatched, and to carry either a suitcase or an umbrella. Both the girls and boys were required to bow to every Sophomore, and to stand aside for every upper-classman, as well as to eat last in the lunch room. We regret to say that many died of hunger because of the last requirement.

After these preliminaries, which were performed rather well for Freshmen, the big day came, but unexpectedly. Of course, we apologized to the "Rats" for waiting so long.

In chapel, Margaret Wright, the Sophomore President, called a few prominent Freshmen, among whom were the Class officers, to the stage. The curtain was drawn in grand style. The Freshmen on the stage looked glorious, but we can't describe how they felt. Some of the performers were rather bashful, but after a few encores they secured more poise.

The honorable president, Jack Aycocke, began the program by delivering his speech with picked words; in fact, he thought of each one before he spoke. The other officers, too, deserve credit for their orations.

However, after the interruption of the long speeches, the program continued. Several of the fair damsels favored us with the latest steps of the Charleston. We had no idea so many of the Freshman girls were from South Carolina.

After this, two song birds gave a few selections, but their voices were lost, for no sound was heard. However, it was greatly enjoyed by the audience.

Many other pleasing performances followed, from which we may predict singers, dancers, speakers, and entertainers for the future.

At the last, our two promising prize fighters of the Freshman class gave us a thrilling exhibition. One weighed only two hundred pounds, while the other big beef weighed a hefty ninety-six. Nevertheless, they were evenly matched and neither was killed.

This concluded the entertainment of the day. Everyone enjoyed it. But what else could one expect, because anything the Sophomore class supports is sure to go across. Every Sophomore is more at ease now, because he feels that he has helped teach the Freshmen the meaning of school spirit. These long speeches on school spirit do not help the Freshmen—they are too young to understand. It takes the action of the older students to show them. They were thus instructed as to what school spirit is, as our class was the year before.

History of the Freshman Class

WE, THE Class of 1930, entered the Sanford High School September 13, 1926. We were glad to become a part of the "High School", although we were very much frightened that first day. However, we all managed to endure that supposedly fatal day safely and successfully, our success being accomplished by the stimulation of the thought that some day we, also, would be Upper-Classmen.

The Hi-Y completed their reception for the Freshmen, which they had begun when we were little eighth graders. A number of intellectual speeches upon topics concerning the Hi-Y were delivered by several promising orators. The High School Football Team gave us a humorous representation of the first game of the season, which was played with Leesburg. Toward the close of the reception, refreshments were served. Everyone enjoyed the affair immensely.

One of the most important events of the year was the occupancy of the Seminole High School. Our school is very beautiful, and all of us are trying to help beautify it instead of marring the school and its surroundings.

We Freshmen arouse much merriment among the Upper-Classmen, but we all know that only professionals can furnish real amusement.

The class motto which we selected is, "To Be, Rather Than to Seem." When we are Sophomores we will understand the full meaning of our motto and we expect to live by it. We intend to do all that we can to help our school and schoolmates, and, therefore, make our High School years a great success.

COACH WHELCHER. Coach was liked by all the boys. He gave all the boys a fair and square deal and although Coach was handicapped by material that was green, he put out a team that fought every minute and later on, during the season, they gave a good account of themselves.

LUKE THOMPSON. Luke was captain and gave the best that he had in every game. Captain was quarterback and on the team like a veteran. He was a fighter. Thompson will be missed next year, for he will graduate this term.

ALGY SPEER. Although this was Algy's first year, he put up a good fight. Wherever he was placed his opponent was worried, for Speer used his hands and feet to good advantage. Algy will also be lost by graduation.

JIMMIE SANDS. Jimmie was all his name implies, for he was sand and had the grit to fight when things looked bad. He was taken out only two minutes the whole season. Jimmie will graduate, too.

JOHN ENTZMINGER. Johnnie had a hard time finding his right place, but when he did, he gave all he had; not many plays got around his end. He has played his last game for S. H. S., for he, too, will graduate.

LESLIE "TITE" MOUGHTON. Tite played hard and was a terror, for when he brought his hands down, his opponent thought stars and moon had fallen on him. Moughton was also good at running interference. He is another graduate.

"HUNTSMAN" MOBLEY. Mobley played at full back and backed up the line. He usually got his man when he came over. He hit the line low and hard. Ross will graduate this year.

ANGUS FORDHAM. Although Fordham came in late he gave the other team something to think about, for he was a hard man to get around and knew how to tackle. Angus starred in the Daytona game.

DICK MAXWELL. The big boy that played half and hit the line hard enough to push it back. Maxwell is a punter and a passer par-excellence. He was elected as next year's captain.

BOB YANCEY. The "Little Boy" that played guard. Bob did everything that a guard is supposed to do and then some. Yancey is only a freshman this year. Great things are expected of Bob next year.

BART FORDHAM. Another little boy that played guard and played it well. Bart did not get here until late in the season, but there were few guards that could do anything with Bart.

J. E. HIGGINS. A boy that had developed into a star by the end of the season. Next year Higgins is slated to be a regular back and will help the team by his kicking and passing.

GORDON WALKER. Another future star for S. H. S. Gordon was fast and will make trouble for opposing ends. In all probability he will direct the team at the quarterback position.

OKE NORDGREN. A tackle. Few plays came around his part of the line without Oke being in the play. He was a sure tackle and fought every minute. Oke will be lost by graduation.

JIM STOINOFF. Jim played end throughout the year and was not taken out a time during the season. This record speaks for itself. Stoinoff was a steady and dependable player in all games.

DONALD STODESBURY. The Golden-Haired Boy from the North. Donald played half back and was always a ground gainer. He is only a freshman and will be a great help to S. H. S. in games to come.

Past Football and the Outlook for Next Year

THE YEAR of 1926 was a successful season, taking it as a whole. Beginning the season there were only a few letter men back. Most of the boys had no football experience, thus Coach Welchel had his job cut out for him. As the season progressed the team showed much improvement. This was proved by the fact that we won practically every other game. The boys displayed a never-failing enthusiasm and at the close of the season the Celery-feds were known throughout this section as a hard-fighting, clean-playing team.

Kiwanis Loving Cup

No civic organization of Sanford has shown its genuine interest in Sanford High School more often than the Kiwanis Club. Having a desire to encourage a large number of the boys and girls of the High School to take advantage of the benefits to be derived from the various athletic games, the Kiwanis Club offered a beautiful silver loving cup.

This cup is to be offered as a prize each year to the class of the High School making the highest number of points in athletic games and contests. The class winning the cup will hold it until another class wins. This cup has aroused more enthusiasm in athletics than has ever before been manifested in Sanford High School. About ten times as many pupils have taken part in athletics as in former years. Last year the cup was won by the Seniors—The Class of 1926.

The school greatly appreciates the cooperation of the Kiwanis Club and thanks the club for this lasting and substantial proof of its interest in Seminole High School.

THE Girls' Athletic Association of Seminole High School has as its duty the fostering and developing of girls' athletics.

This organization was begun in 1917 and has since become a self-supporting school activity.

It endeavors to engage more girls each year in various athletic events.

The Association sponsors the following sports for girls: Volley Ball, Basketball, Track, Baseball, and Red Cross Life-Saving, and Tennis.

Individual Write-ups Concerning Basketball

No. 1 GLADYCE STEMPEL. Captain and Guard. No girl has worked harder for S. H. S. team than Gladyce. And although she nearly lost a tooth in the St. Cloud game and fought right up to the last minute, our opponents said—she was "so sweet." Seriously speaking—her best game was the last half of the fight with De Land. The fact that she was chosen captain reinforces that statement. She will be missed next year, for she graduates in June.

No. 2. MARGARET WRIGHT. Forward. Margaret made varsity her Freshman year and continues to improve. Her style of playing makes her hard to guard. Her repeated long shots and excellent team work in the Winter Garden game made it a one-sided victory for S. H. S.

No. 3. MARTHA WALLACE. Forward. Martha was the other forward that did such beautiful team work with Margaret Wright. Her ability to play the front line and receive the ball, in addition to her straight arm shot that seldom missed, makes her invaluable.

No. 4. MARY CELIA KINLAW. Forward—"the goal-shooting forward." Mary Celia has attracted much attention this year because of her high shooting average and her success in covering the court. The scores of many of the season's games climbed high from her efforts.

No. 5. REBECCA STEVENS. Jumping Center. The signal and team work of Rebecca and her running center, Russell Lee, made the center portion of the court a pretty section to watch. Swift and sure were their passes and Rebecca's tip-off seldom failed. She was at her best in the Leesburg game. She will be missed next year, for she graduates in June.

No. 6. RUSSELL LEE WHEELER. Running Center. The smallest girl on the team and the swiftest. On her toes every minute telling Rebecca to "Jump" sent the ball to Sanford's end of the court in many a game. She also is a Senior and we regret losing her this year.

No. 7. ALICE VIHLEN. Guard. Never was seen a harder-fighting, cleaner player than Alice. A forward seldom lost her and because of her excellent game she had to bear the brunt of attack from many a team. Most of the small scores of Sanford's opponents were due to the efficient guarding of Gladyce and Alice.

No. 8. MARY FRANK HUFF. Sub-Jumping Center. Mary Frank showed her fighting qualities when she played against "Tiny" for a quarter in the St. Cloud game. But she knows real basketball, too, of which we hope to see more next year.

No. 9. MARY HELEN MORSE. Sub-Running Center. Next year's prospects look better because of this girl. Combining swiftness with a good pass, a season's training will make her hard to beat for first team.

No. 10. R. E. GRIFFIN. Sub-Running Center. She moves like a whirl-wind, and how she does leave the floor when she catches a ball! We hope to see her playing next year.

No. 11. ADELE VINING. Sub-Guard. Sticking to her opponent, Adele worries the forward she is playing. She is forging ahead as a first team guard.

No. 12. NATALIE FARNWORTH. Sub-Guard. Not only has she worked but she has greatly improved by her efforts. She is more evidence of why Seminole Hi should have a winning team next year.

No. 13. MINNIE BECK. Sub-Guard. Minnie plays the offensive and defensive game of a guard with vim and vigor. We believe she will be seen in not a few games for S. H. S. next year.

No. 14. MARIA MOYE. Sub-Guard, forward, and "anything else you want." Maria is the only Freshman of this year. She deserves mention because of her hard work (she's a good guard), her faithfulness and her willingness. We are expecting great things from her next year.

WINNERS INTER-CLASS BASKETBALL, JUNIORS

Review of Season

THE past basketball season for the girls has displayed a variety of good material and a continued improvement on the part of the squads.

Out of the fourteen girls finishing the season, only three are from last year's team. Their tireless efforts and "pep" produced a much improved team, of which Seminole Hi may well be proud. The fact that the team won five games out of seven speaks for itself.

The indoor gymnasium has given us one of the finest courts in the State, but good equipment without a working team is of no value. Seminole Hi has both, so 1928 should produce a team that will know no defeat.

Junior Play

The Junior play, which is an annual event, was not given in the fall as usual, but was postponed so that it might be produced in the new High School auditorium.

As Sally goes to press before the cast has been selected, we can give only the name of the play and a synopsis.

The title is "Wives A-Plenty," a farce-comedy, with special songs included. This play is written around a most amusing situation. A group of men from the West come to town, each in search of a wife at the matrimonial agency, and each man's quest is unknown to the other.

The Juniors expect their play to be a big success in every way. Miss Howard and Mrs. Maxwell will direct the play, which will be given in May.

Halloween Party

THEY came, witches, goblins, Spanish beauties, clowns, and even babies to our annual Halloween Party at Sanford High. The chief event of the evening was the stunt each class offered as their part in the entertainment. The freshmen gave their stunt first, having a mythical King Hezabug and Queen Shezabug ruling over the "Kingdom of Nonsense." Next the sophomores presented their cleverly planned act in which all the characters starred. Peals of laughter greeted the juniors when the curtain rose to reveal a small-town "baby show," the blue ribbon being awarded to Minnie Beck as the Perfect Baby.

The striking difference between an old-fashioned proposal and a modern proposal was portrayed by the seniors. In the former, Bill DuBose shyly asked Edith Varn and Ross Mobley, the old-fashioned parents of Louise Thrasher, for her hand in marriage. In the latter, Ruth Grier and Luke Thompson gayly planned an elopement, at the last moment thoughtfully leaving a note to Helen Wilson and Merlin Barnes, their modern parents.

"Curtain."

The judges of the evening honored the sophomores by selecting their stunt as the best, and Mr. DuBose presented them with a beautifully engraved loving cup, a real cup this time.

Dinner in Honor of Basketball Girls

ON the evening of March 11, Mrs. G. M. Williams entertained at the home of Mrs. G. C. Sperring in Fort Mellon, in honor of the basketball girls of Seminole High School. The school colors, gold and black, were used as a color scheme. In the center of the table a basketball was placed with gold streamers attached; the place-cards were miniature golden baskets with black lines for the names of the individual players. Each girl received her letter "S" in recognition of her work throughout the year. The guests included Martha Wallace, Margaret Wright, Mary Kinlaw, Rebecca Stevens, Russell Lee Wheeler, Mary Helen Morse, R. E. Griffin, Alice Vihlen, Adele Vining, Minnie Beck, Natalie Farnworth, Mary Frank Huff, and Maria Moye.

Boat Trip and Senior Play

On the day chosen as Senior Day, the dignified Seniors are transformed into undignified persons who wear all sorts of ridiculous looking clothes and have a half-holiday.

A large number of Seniors expect to take advantage of the opportunity to make a trip by boat from Sanford to Jacksonville, which has become an annual affair. All are looking forward to a wonderful time.

Senior Expression Recital

Vera Dickerson and Stella Moses are to give a Senior Expression Recital on May 27. Each one will give several readings, including humorous and dramatic selections. Musical numbers will be played between the readings. Much appreciation is due Miss Margaret McRae for her untiring effort to make her department a success.

Social Affairs of Commencement Week

THE last week of school is one in which the Senior Class goes out in a blaze of glory. According to tradition, the program for the week includes the most important social events of the year.

On Sunday the Seniors attend the Baccalaureate sermon.

Monday evening Mrs. Fannie S. Munson gives her musical recital. The Senior class is greatly indebted to her for this splendid entertainment and wishes to take this opportunity to express thanks for this kind favor.

Tuesday evening the Juniors honor the class of '27 with a banquet. The Senior class colors, purple and lavender, are used as a color scheme for decorating purposes.

Wednesday evening is reserved for Class Night; then the Seniors usually present a program which consists of frivolities as well as more serious things.

Thursday evening is spent safely and sanely by the Seniors, the girls all going to bed early in order to get their beauty sleep, so they may appear on the following night as sweet girl graduates should.

Friday evening brings Commencement, that night of nights which ends a week of pleasure and joy. As we receive our diplomas we think with sadness that at last we must bid our schoolmates, teachers, and High School farewell forever.

Societas Latina

THIS year the Junior and Senior Latin classes have organized a Latin Club, which promises to be a great success. The club has planned an interesting program, which includes the annual Latin banquet and a Roman wedding in which the members of the Latin Department will take part.

The banquet this year will be a more elaborate affair than ever before. The Juniors and Seniors will be dressed as Roman lords and ladies. They will recline at rose-strewn tables, on gorgeous couches, attended by slaves chosen from the Freshmen and Sophomore Latin classes. The menu will be served by slaves and will follow closely that of a real old Roman feast. The emperor and empress, who will rule the feast, are William DuBose and Rebecca Stevens. After the feast, a Latin play will be given.

The Roman wedding will take place in May and will be a beautiful affair. The bride and groom have not yet been chosen.

The officers of the club are: President, Woodfin Oliver; Vice-President, Elva Pearce; Treasurer, James Stoinoff; Secretary, Helen Wilson. The active members are: Gertrude Benjamin, Vera Dickerson, Elizabeth Earle, Mildred Nix, Elva Pearce, Camilla Puleston, Harriet Rossiter, Grace Spinks, Elizabeth Shoemaker, Marjorie Smith, Rebecca Stevens, Helen Wilson, Gertrude Phillips, Jean Adams, William DuBose, L. P. Hagan, Welcoln Kelly, Mills Lord, Dick Maxwell, Robert Moye, Jesse Neely, Woodfin Oliver, Stanley Peckham, James Stoinoff, Steven Shinholser, and George Schiffler. The Freshmen and Sophomore Latin Students are Associate members.

Auditorium Notes

ON SEPTEMBER 13, we assembled in the auditorium for the opening exercises. Mayor Lake, Mr. DuBose, Professor Lawton, and ministers of the various churches took part in the exercises.

On October 1, the school gave a reception to the Freshmen. The program included talks by Merlin Barnes and Virginia Jinkins, followed by a mock football game. After the program refreshments were served.

Among the chapel speakers for October were Dr. Hamilton Holt, President of Rollins; Jerry Johnston, nationally known C. E. worker, and Mr. C. D. Wolfe, local Y. M. C. A. secretary.

On October 13, the Girls' Hi-Y had charge of chapel. Among the speakers were Alice Elder, Bee Howard, Virginia Jinkins, Lillian Thornley, Elizabeth Shoemaker, and Elva Pierce.

During the month Kathleen Long read "Mirandy on Losing a Husband" for us in chapel.

On November 8, Mrs. Williams led cheer practice—the peppiest we have ever had.

During the month Professor Lawton gave short talks at two of our chapel periods.

On November 30, T. P. Bailey, professor of Ethology at Rollins College, addressed us on the most important factors in the process of studying.

On December 21, a Christmas program was arranged by the Seniors. All the Latin students sang "Adeste Fidelis," and Mrs. Williams, accompanied by Miss Cobb, sang several Christmas Carols in a medley arrangement.

Because the new auditorium was not completed, we did not have chapel until January 24. At that time the Hi-Y Clubs presented a very delightful program. There were a number of speeches and Lillian Thornley and Kathleen Long each gave a reading.

On February 1, Dr. Duffin, State Board of Health Inspector, spoke to us.

On February 15, Mrs. Tom Randolph Lee, Chairman for Florida division, gave us a very interesting lecture on the Stone Mountain work.

First Day in the New School

THE first day of school: so very cold

No "juice" to run the furnace!

Second day: Some rooms warm up

So hot they almost burn us.

But Greenland's icy mountains

Were like Mexico in June

Compared with the frigid atmosphere

In Mrs. Maxwell's room.

A certain math. teacher was so warm

He said he thought he'd Holler,

While across the hall in shivering rage

Sat Miss Scott with a scholar.

The principal sent word at once

That something must be done;

We must have heat from the furnace

When we couldn't use the sun.

The contractor knit his worried brow,

Mr. Bradbury looked in vain.

Fireman Goodale searched for the trouble

And then he searched again.

At last a man from the plumbing shop

In the pipe an oak leaf found;

Now the radiators sang with joy.

The heat went 'round and 'round.

L'Envoi

Miss Scott, Mrs. Maxwell shed their coats;

There is no frost alarm;

Within, without, and all about

The atmosphere is warm.

This year thirty-six new members have been added to the Girls' Hi-Y, and seven to the Boys' Hi-Y. Various business men and women of Sanford have given interesting and beneficial vocational talks to both organizations.

The Hi-Y has been active in promoting social good-will and fellowship among the students. The Girls' Hi-Y entertained the football boys in December; they also gave a St. Patrick social to which the mothers were invited; a Valentine party was enjoyed by the girls and boys jointly; both organizations conducted the opening exercises in the new chapel; the boys are planning a banquet in June, and a boat trip. Merlin Barnes, Edward Andrews, and George Mitchell were sent by the Boys' Hi-Y as delegates to the Older Boys' Conference of the Y. M. C. A., held in St. Augustine.

The Hi-Y organizations are doing a great deal toward keeping the morale of our school on a high standard.

The Garden

*WE WERE walking in the garden
'Mid the flowers of every hue,
The wind was whispering softly
As I promised to be true.*

*Though the birds sing in the arbor,
And the sky above is blue,
There is longing in my heart, love,
That is crying out to you.*

*May the breeze that heard me whisper
My undying love for you,
Hear me say it in my heart, love,
And renew my vow to you.*

*Though in far lands you are dreaming,
Always, always, I love you,
And each year since first I promised
Has the garden bloomed anew.*

The Butterfly

*ONE day in fragrant summertime
A flow'r-like creature crossed the sky
It flew on wings of gold that shine,
It was a lovely butterfly.*

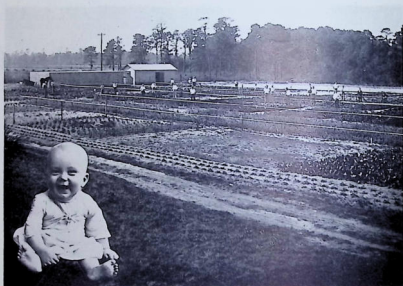

*It flitted o'er the dales and hills,
It nestled in the rustling grass,
It kissed the flowers' lacy frills,
But, ah! this happiness must pass.*

*Its hours of joy are all too short,
By slender threads to life 'tis bound,
The glow of next day's setting sun
Showed its beauty crushed upon the ground.*

Agriculture

*I*N 1926-27, the first year in the new High School, the Agricultural Department has started with an enrollment of forty boys, and we hope it will grow steadily every year.

The school now owns the School Garden and has more room to spread out, and do better work. We have a tool house, a slat house, and hope to have a separate building for class work, shop and manual training. Due to the growth of the Agriculture Department, the government has appointed Mr. Fort to assist Mr. Cooper in the work this year. We had twelve boys attending the South Florida Fair, and most of the boys were on judging teams. On our exhibits we won six first prizes amounting to $27.50.

Some facts about the Agricultural Department of Sanford follow:

1. We have a tenant to look after the garden and help with the school grounds.
2. The Agricultural Department owns a mule and wagon.
3. The boys built a slat house for the propagation of flowers and ornamentals.
4. We have a tool house and plenty of tools for the boys to work with.
5. The garden has an over-head irrigation system that is to water the plants.
6. We have an electric motor which runs the pump and takes care of the over-head and sub-irrigation.
7. We have 7,000 narcissus bulbs, and are trying out 21 different formulas for fertilizer with good results.
8. We hope to have a $12,000 building in the southeast corner of the garden by the opening of school this fall.

Home Economics

THE Home Economics Department was established at the request of the Welfare Department of the Women's Club which agreed to equip the laboratory if the school board would furnish a teacher. The work was organized to meet the requirements of the federal Smith-Hughes Act, and is now regularly supported by this branch of the National Bureau of Education.

In the past few years the classes have become large enough to require two teachers, Mrs. A. H. Stone and Miss Mary Hinton being in charge of the work.

The first-year class takes up Foods and Nutrition, Designing, Clothing and Textiles, and the Home and its Management. The second-year class takes up more advanced work. In it is included Nutrition and Food, Child Care and Training, Clothing and Textiles, Millinery, Health and Home Nursing, and Designing. New equipment was added to both cooking and sewing departments.

Home Economics is an interesting subject and will be a great help to the girls in the home and as a foundation for college work.

Physical Education

THE purpose of Physical Education is to develop boys and girls mentally and physically and to teach them to play the Game of Life squarely. It is impossible to have a well-rounded life without attention to physical fitness and betterment. A correlation between body and mind and the value of the play element has been recognized by all authorities as necessary to good citizenship.

In order that every boy and girl may be given an opportunity to participate in his or her favorite sport, mass competition in various events is pursued during the year. In addition, Physical Education is required of every student not excused by a physician.

This year we have carried out the following program:

A. Regular Physical Education periods each week, consisting of setting-up exercises, drills and games.

B. Sports, both inter-class, and inter-school, including Football, Soccer, Volley Ball, Basketball, Track work ending with Field Day; Baseball, Swimming, Red Cross Life-Saving, and Tennis.

Our new High School has an excellent gymnasium with dressing rooms and showers for both boys and girls. With this added facility the whole program for next year will be greatly improved.

In order to benefit the greatest number of pupils, stress has been laid upon inter-class games, the success of which has been made possible by the Inter-Class Athletic Cup given the school by the Kiwanis Club.

TO BOB HIGHLEYMAN

He moaned and groaned and tore his hair,
He wrung his hands in pain,
He leaped up in the startled air,
And then came down again.

Nay, grieve not for his woeful lot,
And have for him no fears,
A maniac and yet he's not,
He simply leads our cheers.

TO OUR DREAM

O, Luke, our dainty one,
Luke, our school dude,
You have nice manners;
You could not be rude.
When you go riding
In some nice girl's Ford,

You thrill her to pieces
She couldn't be bored.
But, Luke, won't you tell us,
Or must you keep it dark,
Why the teachers can't seem to
Give you one high mark?

MRS. STEELE: "You may leave the room, Arthur."

ARTHUR MONGER: "Yes, ma'am, I wasn't intending to take it with me."

MRS. FORT: "Where do bugs go in winter?"

DOUGLAS ECHOLS: "Search me."
